Chinnici W 6-9pm FST	The Franciscan spiritual, theological and social tradition is confronted today with a host of challenges related to the environment, technology, the ascendancy of the market, consumerism, and the formation of political community. Examining primary source material from Francis of Assisi, Alexander of Hales, Bonaventure, Peter John Olivi, and John Duns Scotus, this advanced seminar will interface some of the dimensions of Franciscan humanism with these contemporary issues as they relate to God's presence to creation, the dignity of the person, the poor as a place where heaven touches earth, personal and communal freedom, the use of power, and the life of virtuous action. Affirming, critiquing, and engaging, the Franciscan tradition presents a humanism for our own time.
